Dear Mr. Kiriakou:

The Publications Review Board has completed its review of the galleys of your manuscript now entitled "Reluctant Spy" received on 10 September 2009 and is disappointed that you reinserted text the Board previously determined was currently and properly classified. In accordance with the terms of your secrecy agreement, the Board has determined that the following information in your galleys is still inappropriate for disclosure in the public domain (i.e., is considered to be classified information) and must be revised or deleted prior to publication.

A copy of the edited pages is enclosed for your records.

After making the required deletions to your original version of the manuscript, we ask that you forward to us copies of the modified pages so that we can ensure that all classified information has been removed from the text. Although we understand that you plan to publish the approved manuscript immediately, and that timing is critical, we do require a final review of galley proofs so that the Board can verify that the published version is the approved version. Your responsibility as the author is to ensure that the publisher releases only the Board approved version. We will work promptly to complete this final review of the galley proofs. The Board gives galley reviews high priority because it knows that authors and publishers have firm deadlines.

Thank you for including the Board's required disclaimer in your book:

All statements of fact, opinion, or analysis expressed are those of the author and do not reflect the official positions or views of the CIA or any other U.S. Government agency. Nothing in the contents should be construed as asserting or implying U.S. Government authentication of information or Agency endorsement of the author's views. This material has been reviewed by the CIA to prevent the disclosure of classified information.

The Board is always pleased to purchase a copy of books published by former Agency employees. Please let us know when "Reluctant Spy" is commercially available so we can add a copy to the Board's research library.
